

Climate information: Mauritius

Mauritius has a warm coastal climate with relatively little seasonal variation in temperatures, although they are generally slightly lower inland, with more rain on the plateau. Cyclones may occur between Dec and February. Sea breezes blow all year, especially on the east coast. June – September are the winter months and it is advisable to bring slightly warmer clothes for the evening.

These weather charts are to be used as a guide only. Weather patterns around the world have become unpredictable in the past few years so we cannot guarantee the weather following its usual seasonal patterns.